Concinnity: 1969

Spirit building, excitement mounts to breathless anticipation;
quarterback darts across the field, dodging opponents. Touchdown is scored! Excited fans cheer, pushing team to victory.
From test tubes to track shoes,
instruments of education
are used to expand awareness, achieve physical and mental perfection.

Friends harmoniously work together in their classrooms, in the gym, in their thoughts; their lives become a multi-ringed circus, a various thing with acts and facts in a continuous string, pointing toward the fulfillment of graduation.
Cramming for that final exam; resounding applause after a premiere play performance; sore throats after a pep assembly—memories somehow forevered in a sheepskin and ink diploma.
This is Concinnity '69
a skillful and harmonious blending together of parts.

Sprawling buildings, departments host a myriad variety of new additions. Balanced gymnast strives for agility, grace in motion on balance beam. Symbolic of school pride, activity bus portrays spirit. Sprawling buildings, expanding departments host a myriad variety of new additions. Expanded from a six room country school to the 58-room complex it is now, Star-Spencer is a center of constant growth. With fall's arrival came three new temporary buildings and a mobile reading lab, relieving crowded classroom conditions. With the acquisition of a balance beam, gymnastics was initiated in girl's physical education classes.

Tony's House

Feeding an appetite to inquire with heaping helpings of knowledge —verses out of rhythm couplets out of rhyme are corrected by harried English teachers;
Science instructors turn
'if' into 'then', 'why' and 'how' into 'because'. Researching answers to questions yet unasked—unceasing patterns of art and society, although being taught, can scarcely be controlled. Defining the undefinable, math utilizes precise logic, calculations.
For teachers, each day becomes an endless string of cigarettes, memos and magazines begging to be read, tests waiting to be compiled. Routine is broken by dinner with friends, relaxing at colleague's homes.

Come along! Join the line of wanderers participating in anything, everything; from gridiron heroics to hammering floats.
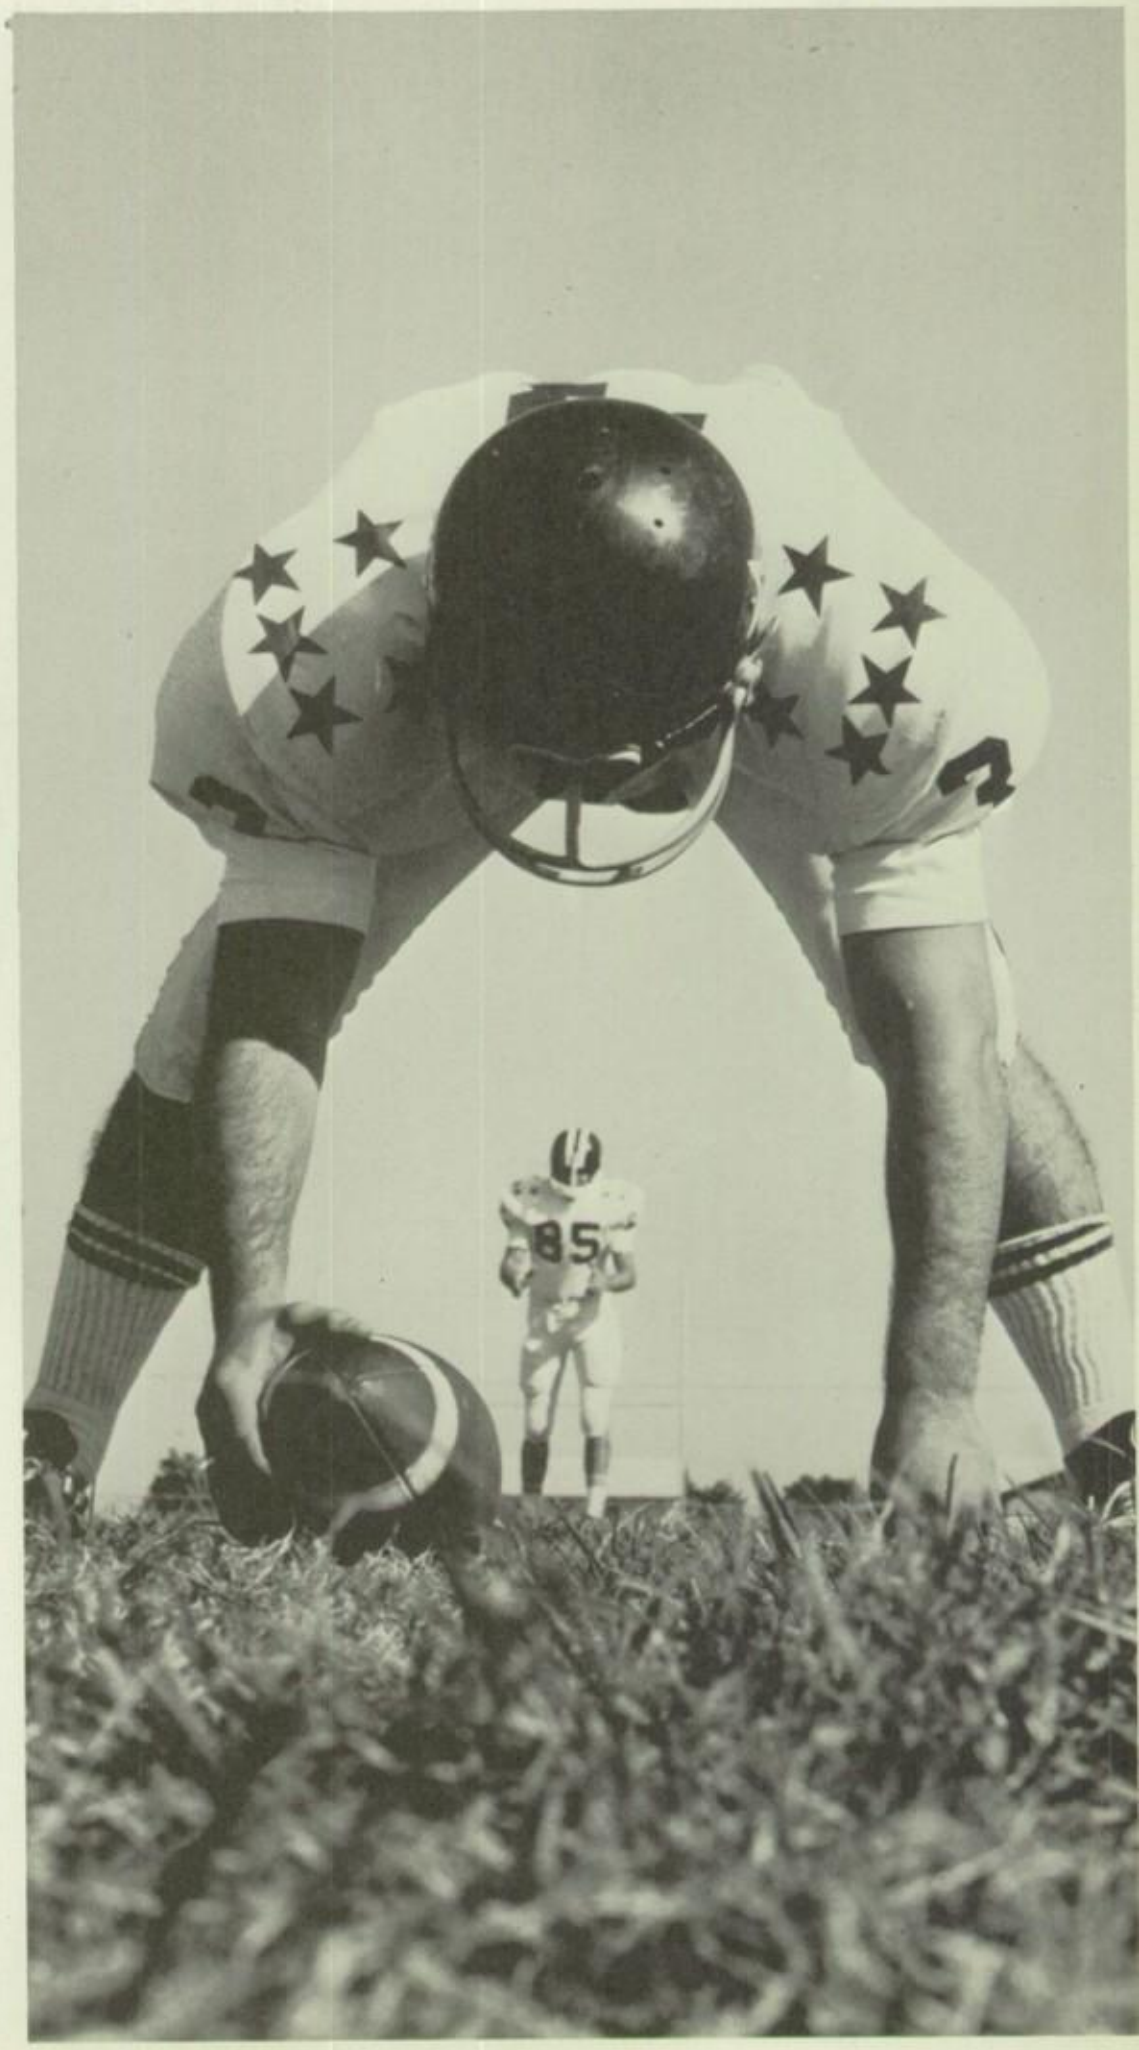
Something is vying to catch your fancy,
to turn your ear to its sounding somewhere.

Teamwork, spirit and a fistful of pride helped Star-Spencer earn the title State Baseball Champions.

Students participated in clubs, trying to find some little something of meaning somewhere.



Participation: 38

Activities are everywhere!
Bursting moods of joy, elation;
noting with chagrin, a class schedule;
under a tree with a favorite book
we see the world in a blur because we race the wind.

Alone on a country road spinning spiderweb thoughts from Tolstoy to Tinkerbell; leading cheers in a slightly overheated gym; calling a meeting to order; these are activities recognized by everyone. Some activities are best accomplished alone on a rainy day others are built on spirit and determination of a group.

Activities: 98

Colleagues are associates in the business of learning. Outlining a finger-painted smile, calculating realms of data which mean nothing until interpreted. Plunging headlong into conflicts, hidden identities emerge.

An outcry of modern drama shouts its protest of false values to an empty house during rehearsal. Struggling students scurried to dissect a frog with only five minutes remaining in lab. Meanwhile, the search for knowledge was interrupted by the search for social contact. New friends and sharing—each experience becomes greater, more memorable.

Artistic hands, creative insight mold clay spinning on a potter's wheel.
Joining laughter of colleagues in lunch line, hands standing by to assist. Doors to education, and fulfillment were opened with keys of basic knowledge held by teachers. Daily guided tours were conducted down the foggy ruins of time; littered with cracked bells, washed-out horns and half-forgotten names.
Teachers taught, students studied under clocks that had no hour hand, deadlines and lessons that seemed,
to us, to stretch out endlessly.

Curriculum: 27

SINCE ACCEPTING HIS responsibilities as Principal of Star-Spencer three years ago, Mr. June Dawkins has worked for expansion and beautification of the campus area and improvements of school teaching facilities for a 67-member faculty.

SHOWING A KEEN interest in student problems, socially and academically both at home and at school, Principal June Dawkins helps son Craig with one of the problems facing him in his senior year at Northwest Classen.

Total student growth goal

WORKING WITH THE philosophy that every facet of school life, curricular and extracurricular, contributes to a student's total growth, the administration, Oklahoma City School Board and counselors directed Star-Spencer's program.

Principal at S-SHS for the third year, Mr. June Dawkins initiated further improvements with the purchase of an activity bus, a balance beam for the girl's physical education department, new textbooks, and three additional rooms.

Mr. Dawkins earned his B.S. degree from Central State College, and his M.A. degree in administration from Oklahoma University.

Assisting with the organization and administration of the school to provide an effective instructional program were Mr. Ted Perdue and Mr. Jim Tomlinson.

Directing the work of 113 city schools was the Oklahoma City School Board and Dr. Bill Lillard, Superintendent of OKC schools.

Providing personal counseling, keeping student records, conducting testing programs and providing information for college-bound seniors was the job of the counseling staff Miss Margie Smith, Mr. James Raglin and Mr. Bruce Miller.

FACED WITH THE problems of a rapid growing school of 1818 students, Principal June Dawkins examines conditions in the parking lot and bus area.

N CHARGE OF educational programs for Oklahoma City Schools are the Board of Education and Superintent of Public Schools. Board members are: Foster Estes, industrialist, President, Ward 4; Dr. Virgil T. Hill, psychology consultant, vice-president, Ward 1; Melvin P. Rogers, banker, Ward 2; W. R. Yinger, oil producer, member-at-large; Dr. Bill Lillard, superintendent, and William E. Lott, farm superintendent, Ward 3.

YSTEMATICALLY EXECUTING SCHOOL policies e Assistant Principals, Mr. Ted Perdue, former counlor, and Mr. Jim Tomlinson, former jr. hi. principal.

TAKING A BREAK from their counseling duties are Mrs. Margie Watters, 7-8; Mr. Bruce Miller, 9-10; Mr. James Raglin, 11-12; and Mr. Alphus Wilson, Rehabilitation Vocational Counselor.

Daily hazards bring unique experiences

ACTIVE CONCERN WITH organizational details, quality of education and guidance of 1818 teens united Star-Spencer's 69 teachers with common goals. Cooperation among faculty members, various curricular departments and the school's administrative and business staff maintained an atmosphere of concinnity.

Trampling through thorny underbrush on a biology field trip, calming a driver education student's frazzled nerves, and carefully tasting what was supposedly a future homemaker's runny chocolate pudding were daily hazards which somehow made the teacher's year at Star-Spencer seem unique.

Keeping abreast of current innovations in education, teachers participated in a myriad variety of enrichment programs and organizations during the summer.

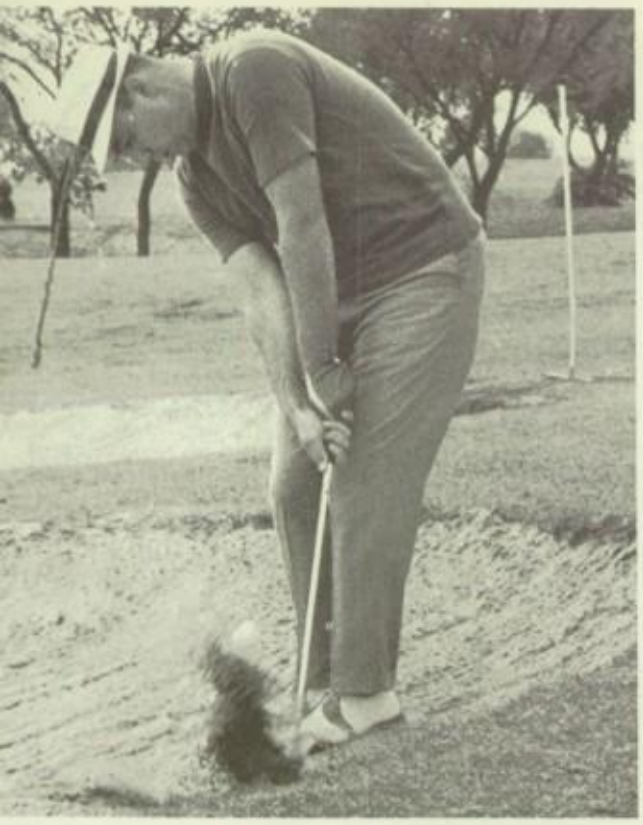
Working as a girls' counselor for federal project "Upward Bound" was Mrs. Tawana Cronin. Mr. Billy Brown exchanged ideas at a National Honor Society workshop held in August.

Scuba lessons for a teacher?

Why not, thought Mrs. Kay Clark, Business Department chairman. Also one of five Pep Club sponsors, she met with club officers during the summer months to supervise and help organize club activities for the coming year.

SLIPPING INTO THE daily routine of performing endless minor tasks, math instructor, Mr. Thomas Flood, clips his hourly attendance slip to the wall.

MR. GARY LANGFORD, band director, works for marching skill perfection during morning practices held on the football field.



RELAXING AT HIS favorite sport golf, inth and tenth grade counselor, Mr. Bruce Miller, slices his way out of a sand trap.

MR. OTTO QUALE, National Scholastic Press Association executive director; Miss Nancy Golliver, Oklahoma Journalism Education Association secretary-treasurer; and Mrs. Lois Thomas, OJEA president, discuss OEA convention plans.

Recreation, study sought

IN ADDITION TO professiona activities, teachers took time fo travel, education, and recreationa projects during the summer.

Miss Beth Moore vacationed i Mexico City and Acapulco, ami preparations for spectacular Sum mer Olympics.

Archery, summer school an other athletic endeavors kept Mis Sue Purcell outdoors.

Planning the '69 Bobcat foun Miss Nancy Golliver meeting regu larly with staff members of th publication staff, interspersed wit summer school. Along with othe duties, Miss Golliver assumed th post as vice-president of OJEA.

BEFORE LEAVING FOR work, Principal June Dawkins describes the day's agenda to his wife, Reba, over a cup of coffee in the breakfast nook.

DEMONSTRATING CORRECT FORM and stance in shooting the bow and arrow is Miss Sue Purcell, phys. ed. teacher.

Custodians

Crew evokes campus pride

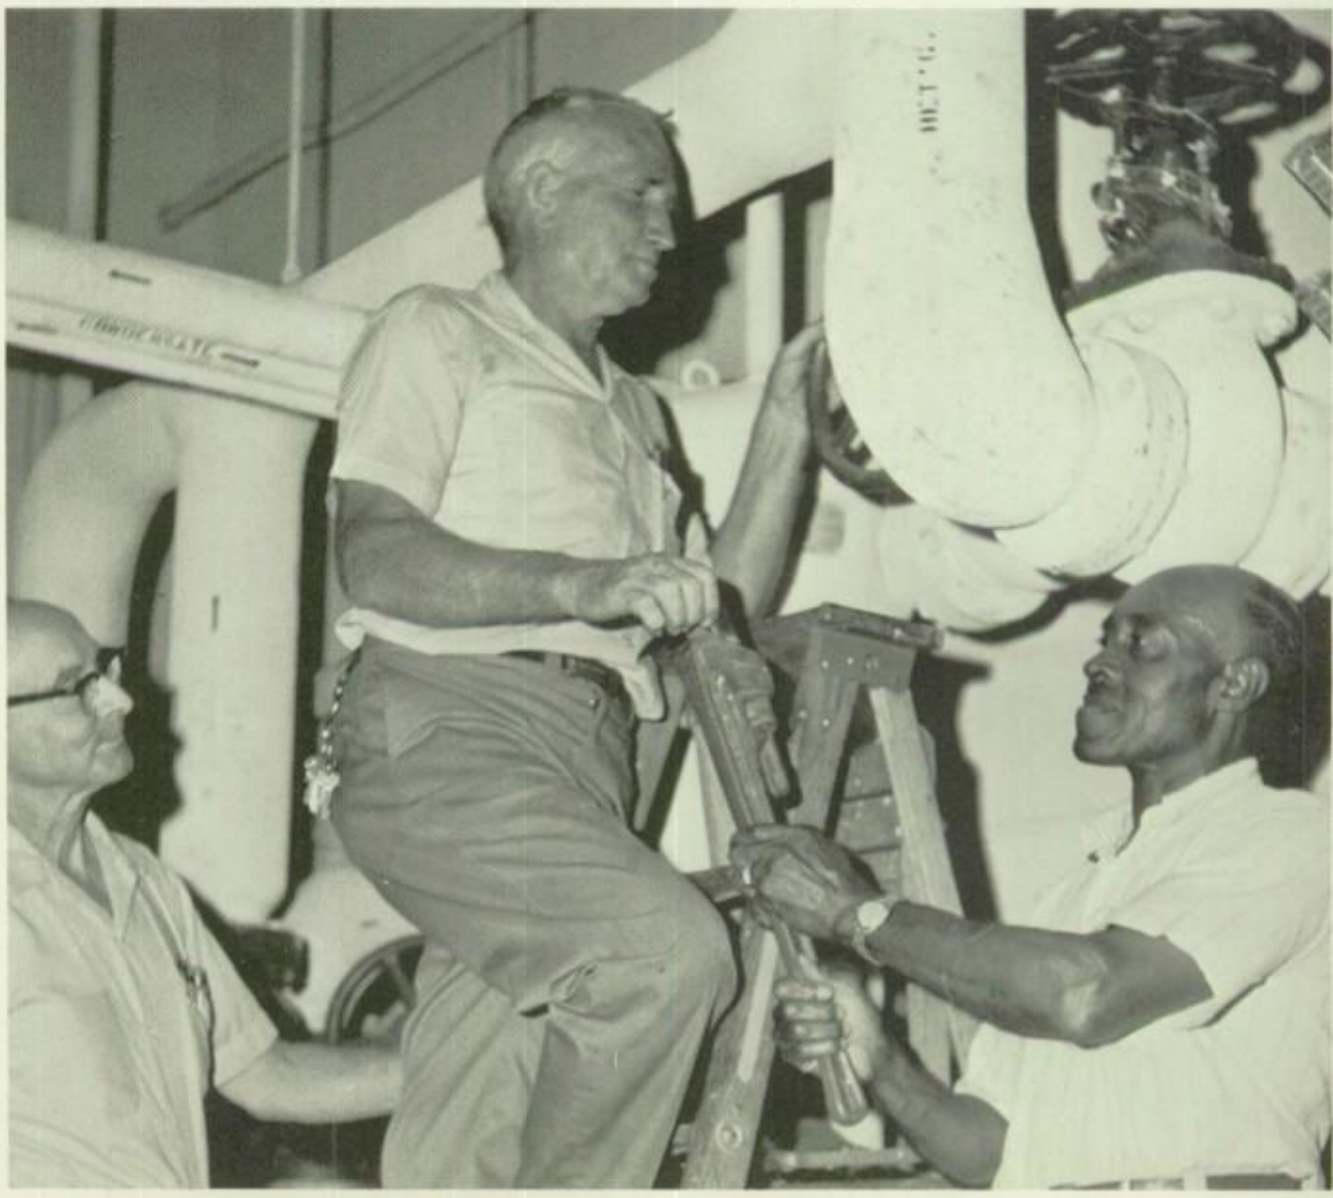
CONSTANT SURVEILLANCE MAINTAINED over the appearance and up-keep of campus facilities furthered the pride students had in their school.

Custodial crews worked early and late to assist students and teachers, whether inspecting machinery, loaning a screw driver to a Pep Club member for float building, or arranging the cafeteria for a dance.

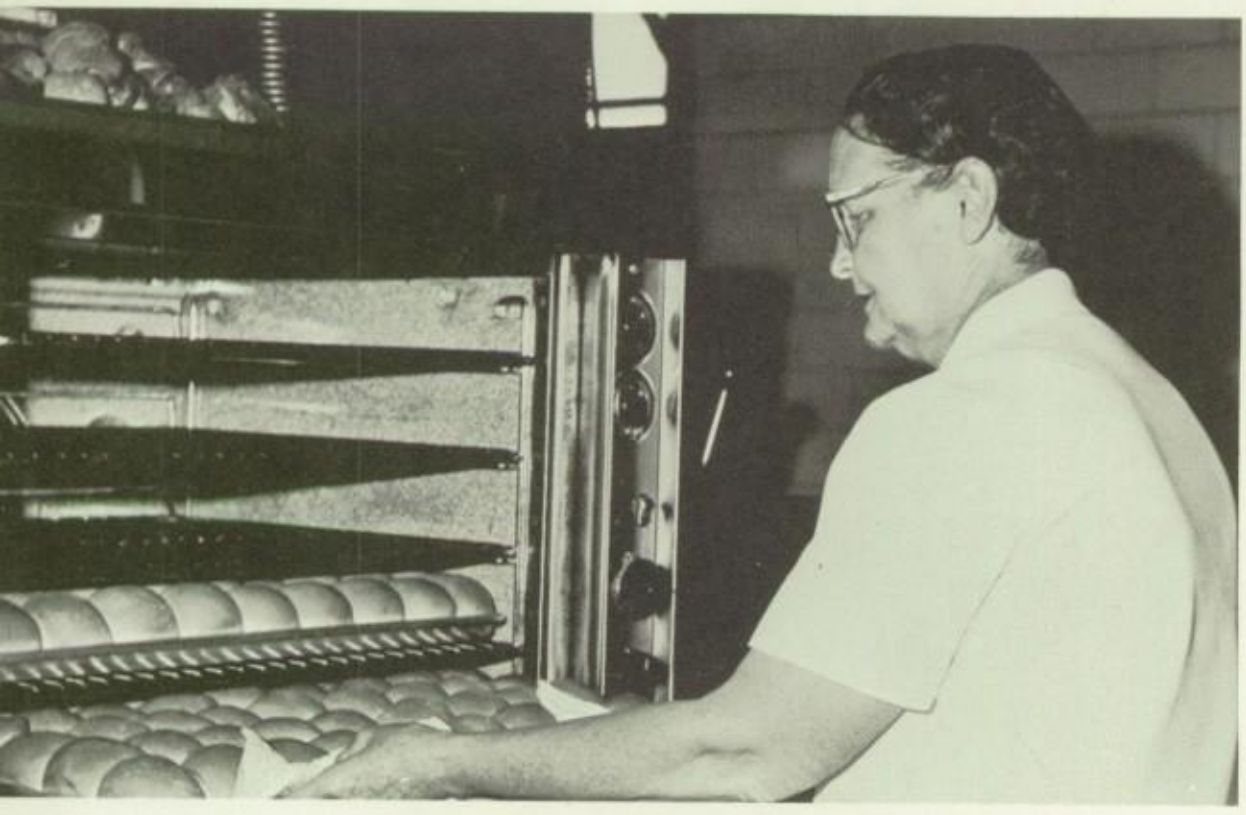
Clean, neatly arranged campus facilities each day and efficient maintenance of heating and cooling systems provided students with a pleasant learning atmosphere.

Keeping in mind that Star Spencer was the 1968 recipient of the Oklahoma City Public Schools Grounds and Landscaping Award, custodians combined efforts to continue the tradition.

MR. FLOYD SMITH, head custodian; Mr. Delmas Dodd, fireman; and Mr. James Wood, floorman, inspect hot water pipes in the boiler room for correct pressure of plumbing facilities providing comfort and safety for the students.



Cooks serve 5,000 student meals weekly



MRS. ELEANOR TAYLOR checks part f the hundreds of rolls for quality and lavor, to be served daily to more than 1000 junior and senior high students as they pass through the lunch lines.

MAINTAINING QUALITY SERVICE in the cafeteria for approximately 1000 junior and senior high students each day meant extensive planning by the 13-member cafeteria staff.

Cafeteria lines open before school and during the three lunch periods were operated under the supervision of Mrs. Mildred Davis.

Trained by Central Foods, Mrs. Davis received a menu distributed to all schools in the Oklahoma City area monthly from the Board of Education to plan Star-Spencer's meals.

Cafeteria doors were open in the morning to serve breakfast drinks and rolls, while during the lunch periods the staff served both hot meals in the regular lines and sandwich snacks in the cold lunch line.

STUDENTS USING LIBRARY facilities required constant attention of librarians Mrs. Lois Matthews, Mrs. Jean Hartis and Mrs. Jean Odelberg.

Secretaries, Librarians, Nurse

Service main goal of secretarial staff

KEEPING PACE WITH the needs of the entire student body in a non-teaching capacity were three distinct departments.

Secretaries, in the office complex, were responsible for the orderliness needed for a school to function effectively.

Students were secure with knowledge that they would receive prompt attention from the nurse.

Three librarians supplied teachers and students with reference materials, literary works, and vital information.

Learning unraveled many knots—knots in up-and-down, absolute logic; snarls in that spangle of curiosity which turned knowledge inside out. Tangles were unraveled, all but the master knot of human fate.

Perhaps it is the sight of dog-earred books, outdated in their philosophies, or blatant headlines which inspires this generation to abandon its shell of mediocrity to explore a world of knowledge outside the classroom. Knowledge presents itself in vague traces and images of idealism, to be scrutinized by students of life.

Language Arts, Music

Appreciation of literature, arts radiates

LANGUAGE ARTS DEPARTMENT and Music Department courses were designed to enable students to communicate more clearly with one another through verbal usage, literary comprehension and musical appreciation.

English enrollees were taught basic rudiments preparing them for specialization as junior and senior upperclassmen.

Yearbook, newspaper and Creative Writing were elective courses available within the English Department.

Communication became international with the presence of two foreign languages, French and Spanish in the curriculum.

In the Drama Department experience was provided with three years of speech plus Stage Craft for advanced students.

Two divisions, vocal and instrumental, compose the Music Department. Courses range from Select Choir to Stage Band.

Math, Science

Homegenous fields relate

TWO CLOSELY RELATED fields, one supplying a background for the other, and both having added importance placed on them in today's computerized society were the Mathematics Department and Science Department.

Eighth graders were able to enroll in Algebra I, with geometry, Algebra II and trigonometry/ math - analysis completing the course offering list.

With the proper mathematical background, students found science problems and formulas easier to comprehend. Learning to put knowledge to work and to think independently was stressed.

Vocational, Physical Education

Exercise improves fitness

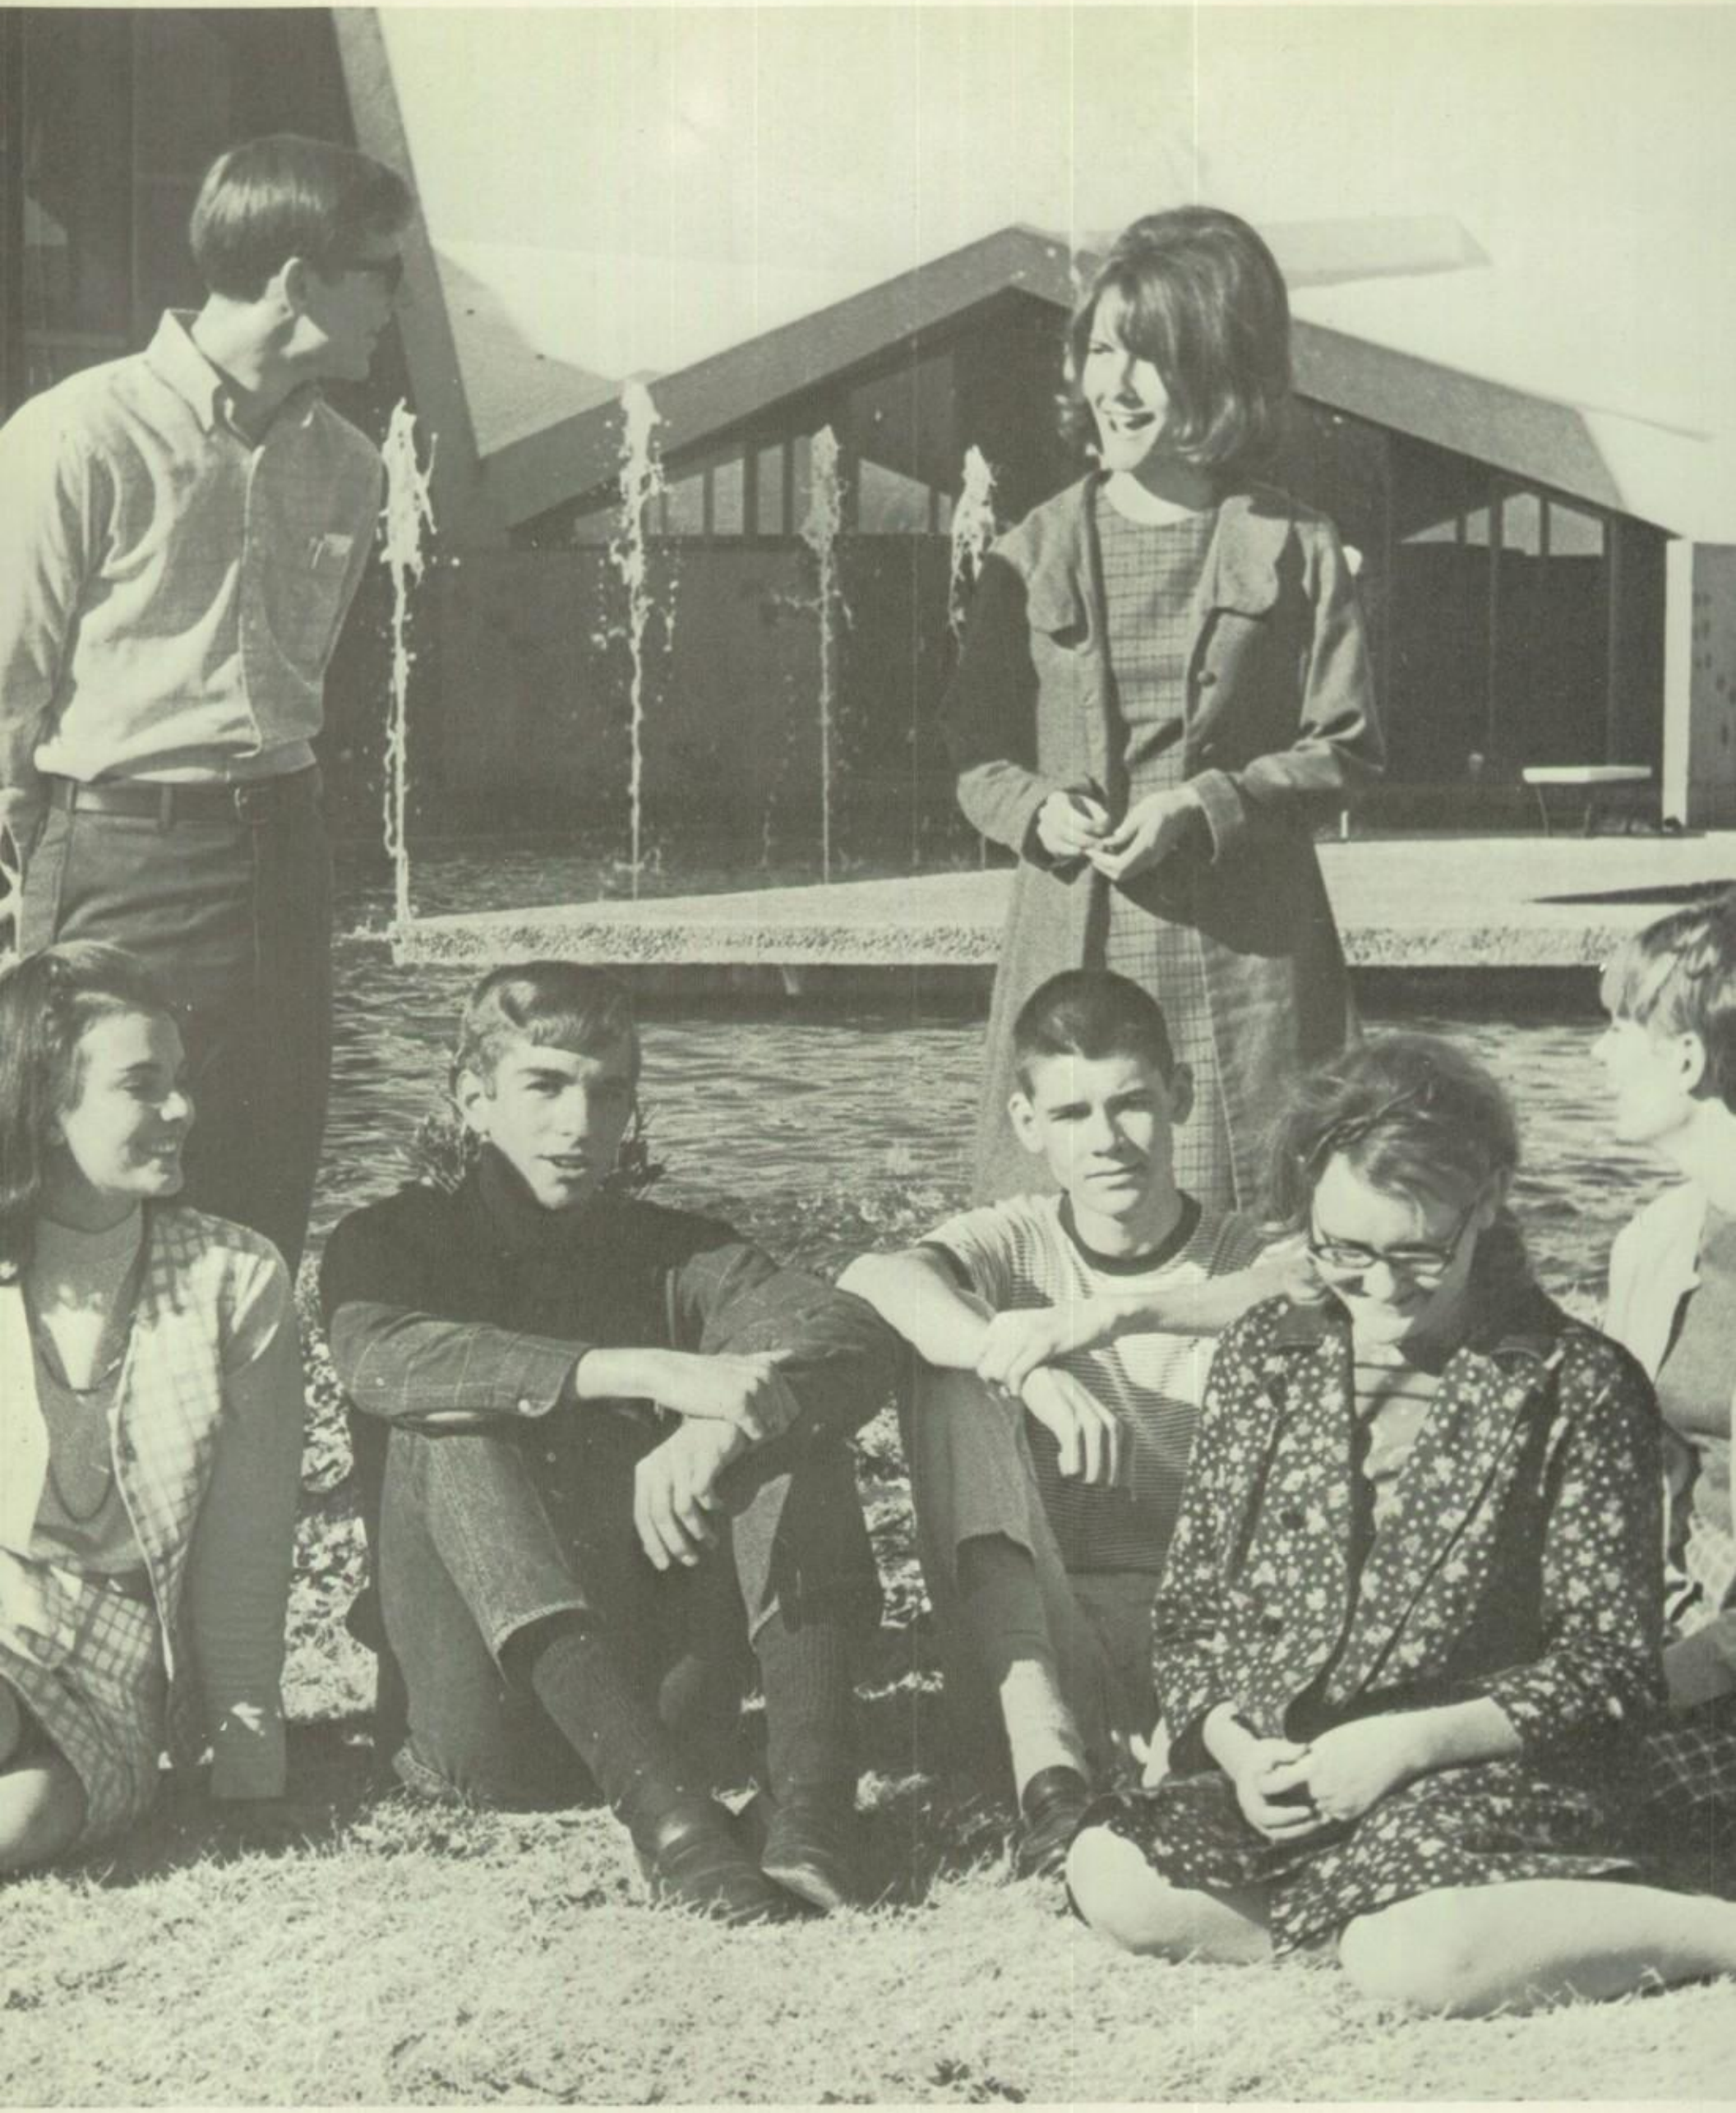
MENTAL AND PHYSICAL exercise were the dominant characteristics of two vastly different curriculum areas, the vocational and physical education departments, respectively.

Five classes, drafting, woodshop, metal shop, auto mechanics and electronics, composed the vocational classes offered to grades 7-12.

On-the-job-training after school and attendance at Vocational-Technical Education Center trade classes, attended one-half day, supplemented class offerings.

One year of physical education for each student was required before graduation. Daily exercises coupled with team drills, in basketball, baseball, volleyball, badminton, and ping-pong improved students' physical well-being in addition to promoting sportsmanship.

Conducted early in the course and once more at the close, the city-wide physical fitness testing program measured improvements in the health and fitness of gym.



Youth probe for self-value

YOUTH'S DESIRE FOR self-expression and re-appraisal of accepted values finds an open place for discussion in three departments, Social Studies, Art and Home Economics.

Oklahoma History, American History-Government, world history, and economics-government kindled interest in politics.

Man's cultural history and life's purpose were explored in humanities and psychology-sociology.

Freedom of self-expression was encouraged in the Art Department.

Home Economics Department classes such as, Family Relations/Child Care, prepared girls for future roles as homemakers.

Participators tint their world with rosy colors—spirit shown in scarlet-flushed cheeks contrasts with storms of moody purple. Golden rays beam from the lamp of knowledge. Shades of meaning subtilized or made activities more vibrant for the participant; himself part of a larger, more complex whole. Channeling restless energy into creative innovations through group action of people with common goals united many—the leaders, the followers, the organizers. Earnest participation lead to the ultimate goal—self-discovery.

Student Council

'Avedagic' spurs interest

STUDENT COUNCIL SLAKED the thirst for student participation by sponsoring a wide range of activities throughout the year.

Fully developing their leadership potential, seniors Larry Pruitt, president; Suzanne Lunn, secretary; and Kathy Walker, treasurer, attended a state-wide workshop at Central State College in August.

"AVADEGIC" was the magic word in November, meaning 'A Very Exciting Dance After Game In Cafeteria.' Ending a week of activity which included a car bash and evening bonfire, a dance was held for all students.

Thanksgiving generosity spurred members to collect enough food to feed 12 needy families in a school-wide food drive.

Voting machines were used to tally votes during April school-wide elections. "Okie Pride Week" found classes full of Indians and '89ers reliving Oklahoma's 62 years of proud heritage.

15 advance in math skills

SHARING A LIVELY interest in the challenging world of mathematics, 15 Mu Alpha Theta members tested their knowledge of math by developing new skills.

Initiation plans included viewing a Mummer's Theater production and dining at an Oklahoma City restaurant this spring.

Each mathematician was required to have taken at least five semesters of math and a two point grade average in math.

National Honor Society, sporting 80 members, emphasized development of leadership, scholarship, service, and character.

Additional members were chosen in February on the basis of work from previous semesters.

Ice skating at the State Fairgrounds Arena, before a Blazer's Hockey Game, helped acquaint pledges with old mmebers. Initiation ceremonies were held for pledges and their parents in the school library March 10.

Pep Club

Loyal support heightens spirit, morale

SKYROCKETING BOBCAT MORALE, a job undertaken in an ura of fun, encouraged Pep Club nembers to give unyielding suport to school teams.

Ushering at the musical, "I Do! Do!", the National Rodeo Finals nd sponsoring a Christmas Food Drive were service projects undertaken by Pep Club.

After-game mixers, pep rallies, spirit ribbons, halls plastered with signs, and active support of school teams, especially during the Star-Spencer Basketball Tournament, gave Bobcat morale a boost.

Executive Board members and the club's eight officers faced the responsibility of rewriting the club constitution.

Christmas, with a gala dance, and their Feb. 28 slumber party brought welcomed breaks from familiar school routine.

CHOSEN "BOBETTE AND Bobette Beau '69" by club balloting during the nonth of January were seniors Suzanne Lunn and Charles Bishop.

Experience key to award winning team

EXPERIENCE WEIGHED HEAVILY in favor of the '69 heerleaders as they turned in top-otch performances in state cheer-eading competition.

Three first place and two second lace ribbons were awarded the ght members at the summer Ok-homa University Thunderhawk linic.

Girls were in competition with l state high schools and the squad rought home more honors than ny other school in attendance.

Of special pride to the squad was ie "Spirit Stick" and a $50 schol-rship presented to them for their tstanding enthusiasm and skill.

In January, the eight girls returned from winter clinic with first place ribbons and a trophy to present to the student body. Star-Spencer's newly formed three-member alternate unit earned second place ribbons at the clinic.

Continuous winning performances caused fame. They were sought after by several state schools to judge their cheerleading tryouts.

Seven of the eight girls had past experience in cheerleading. Two had four years experience each, four others had three years each, and one had two years experience.

Directing spirit marches through the halls, planning and presenting pep assemblies, instructing pep club members in new yells, and cheering the boys on to victory each season were their responsibilities, each season.

Spring months were spent planning tryouts for next year. Procedure and rules according to the constitution were outlined that would offer all girls grades nine through twelve the chance to participate in Pep Club.

Judges for the squad were cheerleaders from Oklahoma University, Central State College, and Southwestern State College.

Vocal, Marching Groups

Color guard carries flags

PRACTICE SESSIONS CO-ORDINATING voices and movements into rhythmic harmony were numerous and harried five Music Department divisions.

Marching ahead of the band in parades and at games were the five-member Color Guard, holding aloft the United States, Oklahoma and school flags. Members were chosen the previous spring in try-outs before Mr. Gary Langford, band director. Navy blue blazer outfits with white gloves created a sharply dressed look to the marching columns.

Drum Major and Drum Majorette, Larry Pruitt and Alecia Dorsey, directed the pride of Star-Spencer band in its marching patterns and conducted regular half-time musical performances.

Whether performing with the band or appearing in solo, the majorette group was required to execute its movements with faultless precision obtained from hours of practice, and endurance.

Entertainment for the student body and the community was available in the form of four singing students, the Quartet.

Thirty-one voices combined to create the Select Choir. Students from grades nine through 12 composed the group.

Band, Stage Band

Musicians earn notability, practice daily happening

NEW TUNES, BOUNCING with a catchy beat, were daily fare for the 19 member Stage Band. Members, under the direction of Mr. Gary Langford, practiced twice weekly, presenting a variety of assemblies to the student body.

Diligent work paid off as Stage Band, one of three bands representing Oklahoma took third place in the Brownwood Texas Stage Band Festival, and participated in the Drury College Festival, Springfield, Missouri.

Adding zest to football games and assemblies, 66 band musicians performed under Mr. Gary Langford's direction.

Competition for honors was fierce during contests held at Central State College, Oklahoma State University, and University of Oklahoma this spring.

Vocal music, polished to a gleam was the specialty of Madrigal. Harmonizing at assemblies, the eight musicians were directed by Mrs. Judith Cunningham.

Aspiring actors stage court room drama

ACTIVE PARTICIPATION IN play productions and speech contests were the basic requirements for membership in the Star-Spencer Chapter of the National Thespian Society.

November initiation ceremonies at Adair's Cafeteria were attended by 75 members, forty of whom were new members.

In October the first play of the season "Get Witch Quick," a comedy, had seniors filling lead roles. Three months later a cast of all Thespian members produced a court-room drama, "The Night of January 16."

Shortly after the onslaught of second semester, a field trip was taken to the Mummers Theater, Oklahoma City's amateur theater group, to view an evening performance of "Our Town."

Sponsoring of the annual spring "Senior Skit" was, for the first time, under the direction of Mrs. Deborah Bruce, Thespian sponsor.

Throughout the year, any use of stage facilities by other organizations was arranged through the drama society.

Thespians utilized talents in helping other groups as well as their own. Stage production members instructed Pep Club in making scenery for dance decorations. Also, play cuttings were performed for student council visitation.

FHA, FSA

Space Odyssey fosters science interest

DURING THE PAST year, tantalizing aromas, and some not so tantalizing, have filtered back and forth between adjoining rooms in "D" Hall where two different clubs, the Future Homemakers of America and Future Scientists of America meet.

As their first community service project, FHA members collected canned food to present to a low-income family at Thanksgiving.

Christmas season saw the FHA organization mailing food packages to servicemen in Vietnam, and caroling at Children's Memorial Hospital, Oklahoma City.

Members modeled self-constructed clothing at the Spring Fashion Show, held in the auditorium.

Strange, piercing odors were often emitted from the chemistry and physics classroom in which the Future Scientists of America engaged in science projects.

Attempting to stimulate the students' interest in science the FSA club sponsored a field trip to view the movie 2001, A Space Odyssey. Additional science-oriented programs presented to the student body were the annual Bell Telephone Assembly and the school-wide science fair. Science seminars at Oklahoma City University and Oklahoma University were attended by FSA members.

Club projects develop skill, confidence

THREE ORGANIZATIONS WERE vastly different in purpose, two leading to automation and a technicalized society, the other cultivating self-expression and aesthetic values.

Star-Spencer's chapter of the Vocational Industrial Clubs of America sought to coordinate the experiences shared by its technical department members.

Whether inspecting a foreign made car or conducting an auto safety check, VICA members developed confidence and skill. Soon, many would be entering vocational careers seeking higher technical schooling or employment in private industry or enterprise.

Scarcely an organization at school could function without the assistance of the Art Club. Two club projects were creating school emblem pennants for sale to the student body, and preparing advance posters for Drama Department productions.

Art members painted psychedelic-design backdrops for the Stage Band's Jazz Concert. Junior and senior class members received help in planning prom and Senior Breakfast decorations.

Electronics Club members sought to discuss and share common experimental classroom experiences in their meetings.

Academic improvement concerns club

ACADEMIC IMPROVEMENT WAS a common concern and goal of three separate organizations, Future Teachers of America, Spanish Club and French Club.

Membership in the clubs aimed toward improving grades in related courses, French and Spanish classes, and courses providing a well-rounded background for those planning to teach.

FTA members took Christmas snacks to the Spencer Rest Home as their holiday project. Also, Dittybags containing a ruler, tablet and pencils were presented to state children's mental retardation hospitals and homes.

Lasting two days, the annual FTA State Convention at Oklahoma State University was attended by the Star-Spencer chapter.

Spanish Club members were initiated at a ceremony-dinner in the fall. Crowned at the installation as Spanish Queen '69 was Pam Pickering, soph.

High point of the year for members was the state wide Spanish Club Festival at Lawton. Nationally affiliated, the workshop featured guest speakers, panel discussion, dinner, and dance.

Members contributed canned goods to the Student Council Thanksgiving Food Drive.

French Club members meeting bi-monthly, used cultural study of the French speaking countries in hopes of fostering a better understanding between Anglo-French speaking people.

Club activities pursued additional study not possible in the two-year French course.

Initiates research careers

TAKING A LIVELY interest in the world of business, nearly 90 Future Business Leaders of America members cultivated their business talents and displayed a flair for student leadership.

Viewing films of the National FBLA Convention, shown by the club's state director, introduced pledges to the major activities involved. October's initiation banquet and the Powderpuff Football Derby united old members and initiates. Sponsoring a Valentine's Banquet for FBLA members and a St. Patrick's Day Dance for the entire student body along with attending the State FBLA Convention in Oklahoma City closed the year's round of activities.

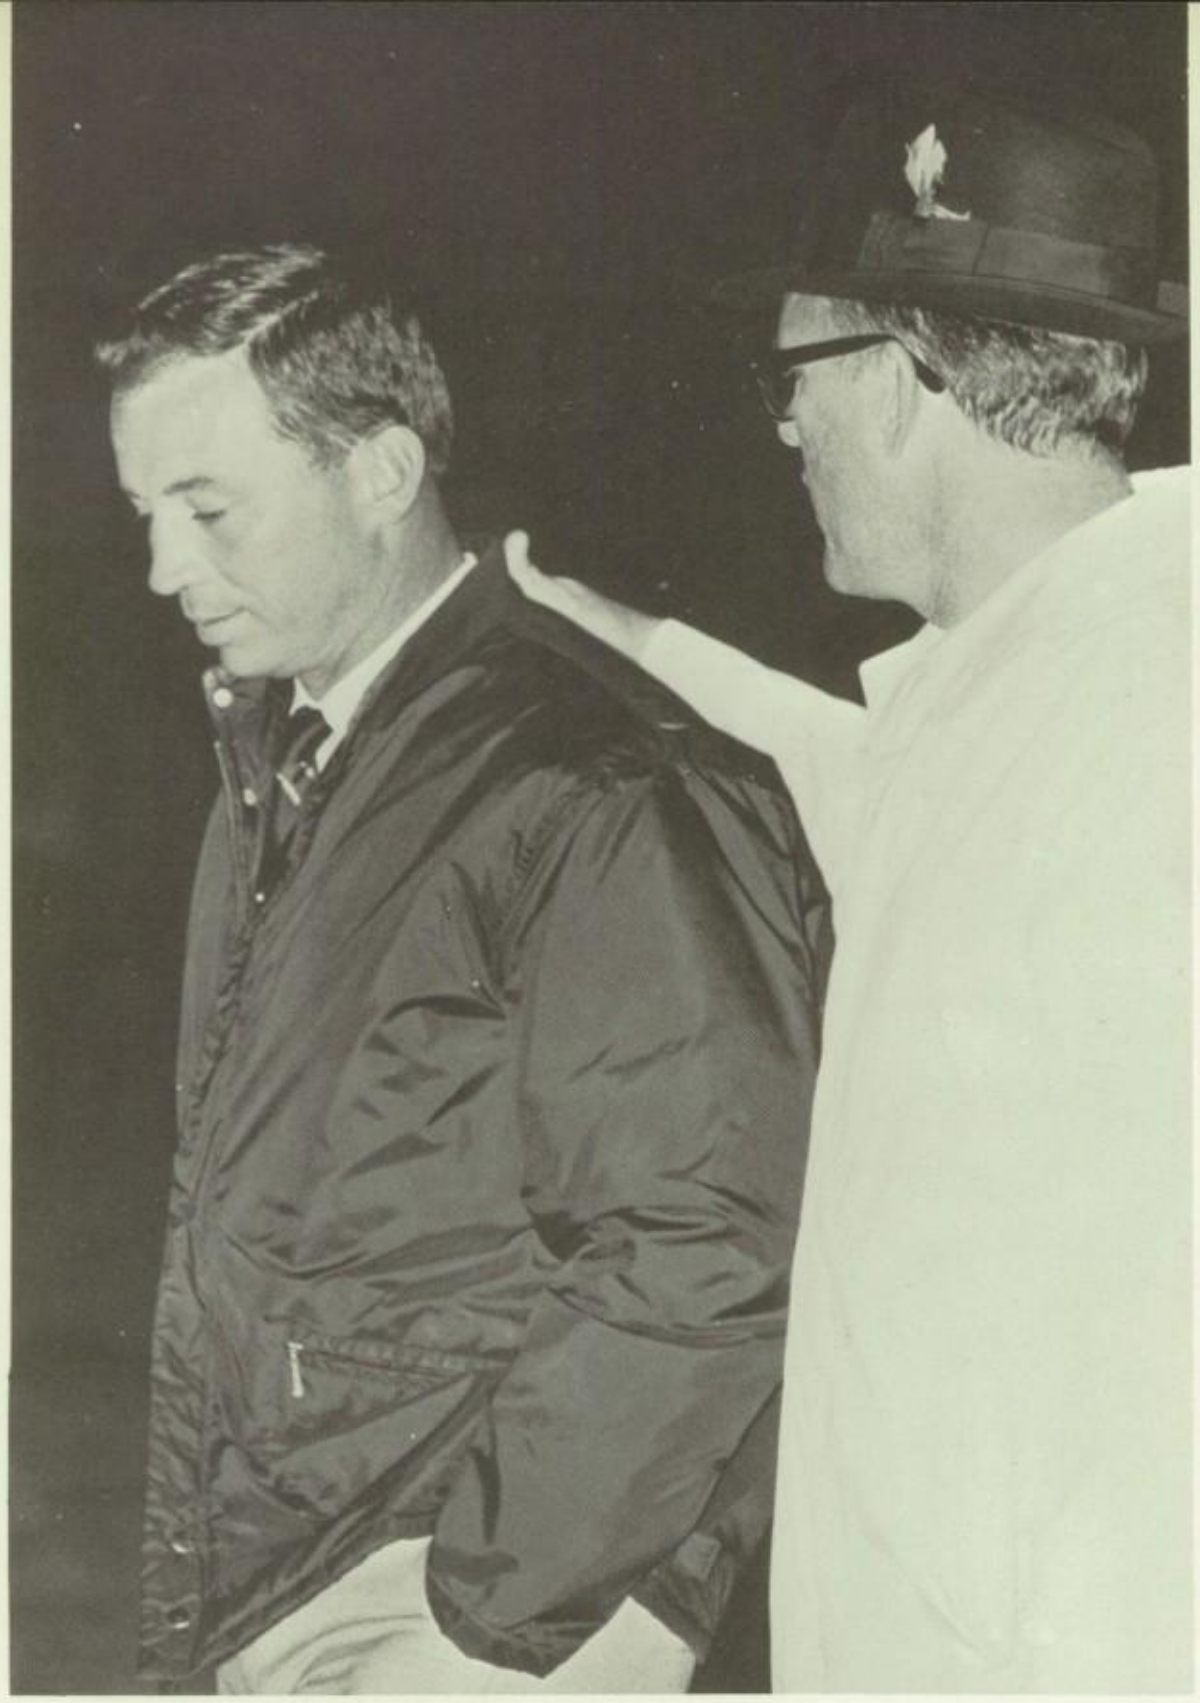
Quill and Scroll

Writing skill pre-requisite

SUPERIOR INDIVIDUAL ACHIEVEMENTS in high school journalism earned 15 students membership in Quill and Scroll.

Expressing appreciation to teachers for allowing members to be absent to work on deadlines, members arranged a Christmas buffet for faculty members.

Membership pre-requisites required that students be junior or senior, rank in the upper third of the class scholastically, and recommended by the club sponsor.



Victors revel in the roar of the gallery while the defeated relive bittersweet memories—the metallic ring of hollow cheering; shattered nerves and fumbled chances; action embodied in the desire to win.
Actions were tangled in the montage of motion and emotion involved in coping with the unexpected. Cheering, screaming, shouting, escaping on the run gave each team that special reason for trying—that certain indefinable spark called spirit—necessary for victory. Teammates working together, playing hard and communicating represented athletics at its best.

Secure second in district

AFTER LOSING THE first two games of the season, Bobcats won seven of the last eight. Six were by impressive margins. By tying Northeast, the Bobcats secured a second-place tie with the Vikings in District 2-AA south and extended their undefeated winning streak to eight games.

Losing only to Putnam City and Classen, the Bobcats were ranked eighth in the Class AA final ratings.

Bobcats became the most potent team in Class AA, averaging 32.8 points in ten regular season games.

Injuries harmful to all teams struck, but due to depth, experience and team determination, Bobcats were able to overcome bleak pre-game predictions and began their longest undefeated string in over two years.

Highlighting the season was the last game when the Bobcats romped over Capitol Hill "B" team, 68-16 as substitutes were freely inserted throughout the game for valuable experience.

Senior Randolph Barnes was awarded a trophy and title of "Prep Player of the Week," for outstanding play against the Redskins, scoring four touchdowns for the victorious Bobcats.

COMING UP WITH a vital play against Northeast Vikings are Ivo Cifarelli, 14, Mike Robinson, 3, and Earnest Crane, 54, as the trio stacked up on Northeast's Mike Billings, 82. Bobcats overcame a 20-6 halftime deficit.

New assistants appointed

ADDING TO THE new season was the arrival of two new assistant coaches. J. H. Bowman, last year's junior high football and basketball coach, along with James Cantrell, appointed wrestling instructor, accepted responsibilities of assisting in rebuilding the varsity Bobcat grid squad.

Enabling the Bobcats to have a successful season was the determination, coordination, correct timing and execution, as well as the mental attitude, that the Bobcats displayed throughout the 1968 season. Spicing the year were weekly "pep assemblies" where students met to regenerate school spirit.

Miserly defensive maneuvers were used as the Bobcats shut out three victims and held two others to only one touchdown each through the season.

Matmen win Capital Conference title

ENJOYING THE BEST season several years, the Bobcat grapers won four first-place matches nd easily outdistanced their conerence opponents for the Capital onference trophy.

Winning first-place matches for ne Bobcats were senior Ron Rees-, junior Will Hardin, junior Rob-t Holmes, and senior Charles ishop. All other Bobcats received econd or third-place medals at the nference tournament.

In other tourney action, the Bobts took second-place at the Edmond Invitational Class AA Tournament, behind the host Edmond Bulldogs, and reaped third-place honors and trophy at the Carl Albert Invitational Tournament.

Not only did the Titans win their tournament, but they were also the only team to defeat the Bobcats in dual matches. Bobcats went down to defeat in the clutches of the Titans twice, dropping the second match 20-19.

Bobcat grapplers ended their 1968-69 dual-match series with an 8-2 record overall.

Grapplers third in All-City Tournament

LEADING THE BOBCAT mat team to a third-place finish in the December All-City Tournament with falls in the quarter and semi-finals and a decision in the final rounds, senior Ronnie Reeser became the first in Star-Spencer's wrestling history to win an All-City title.

In other tournament action across the state, the Bobcats took ninth-place in the Regional Tournament at Perry, and finished fifteenth at Broken Arrow in the State Tournament, despite a third-place finish by Reeser.

Acquiring the services of Jim Cantrell as wrestling coach livened the Bobcats' spirits and helped them to a winning season.

Bobcats dropped out of contention in the state tournament as they failed to take a first.

State AA win hope of 1969

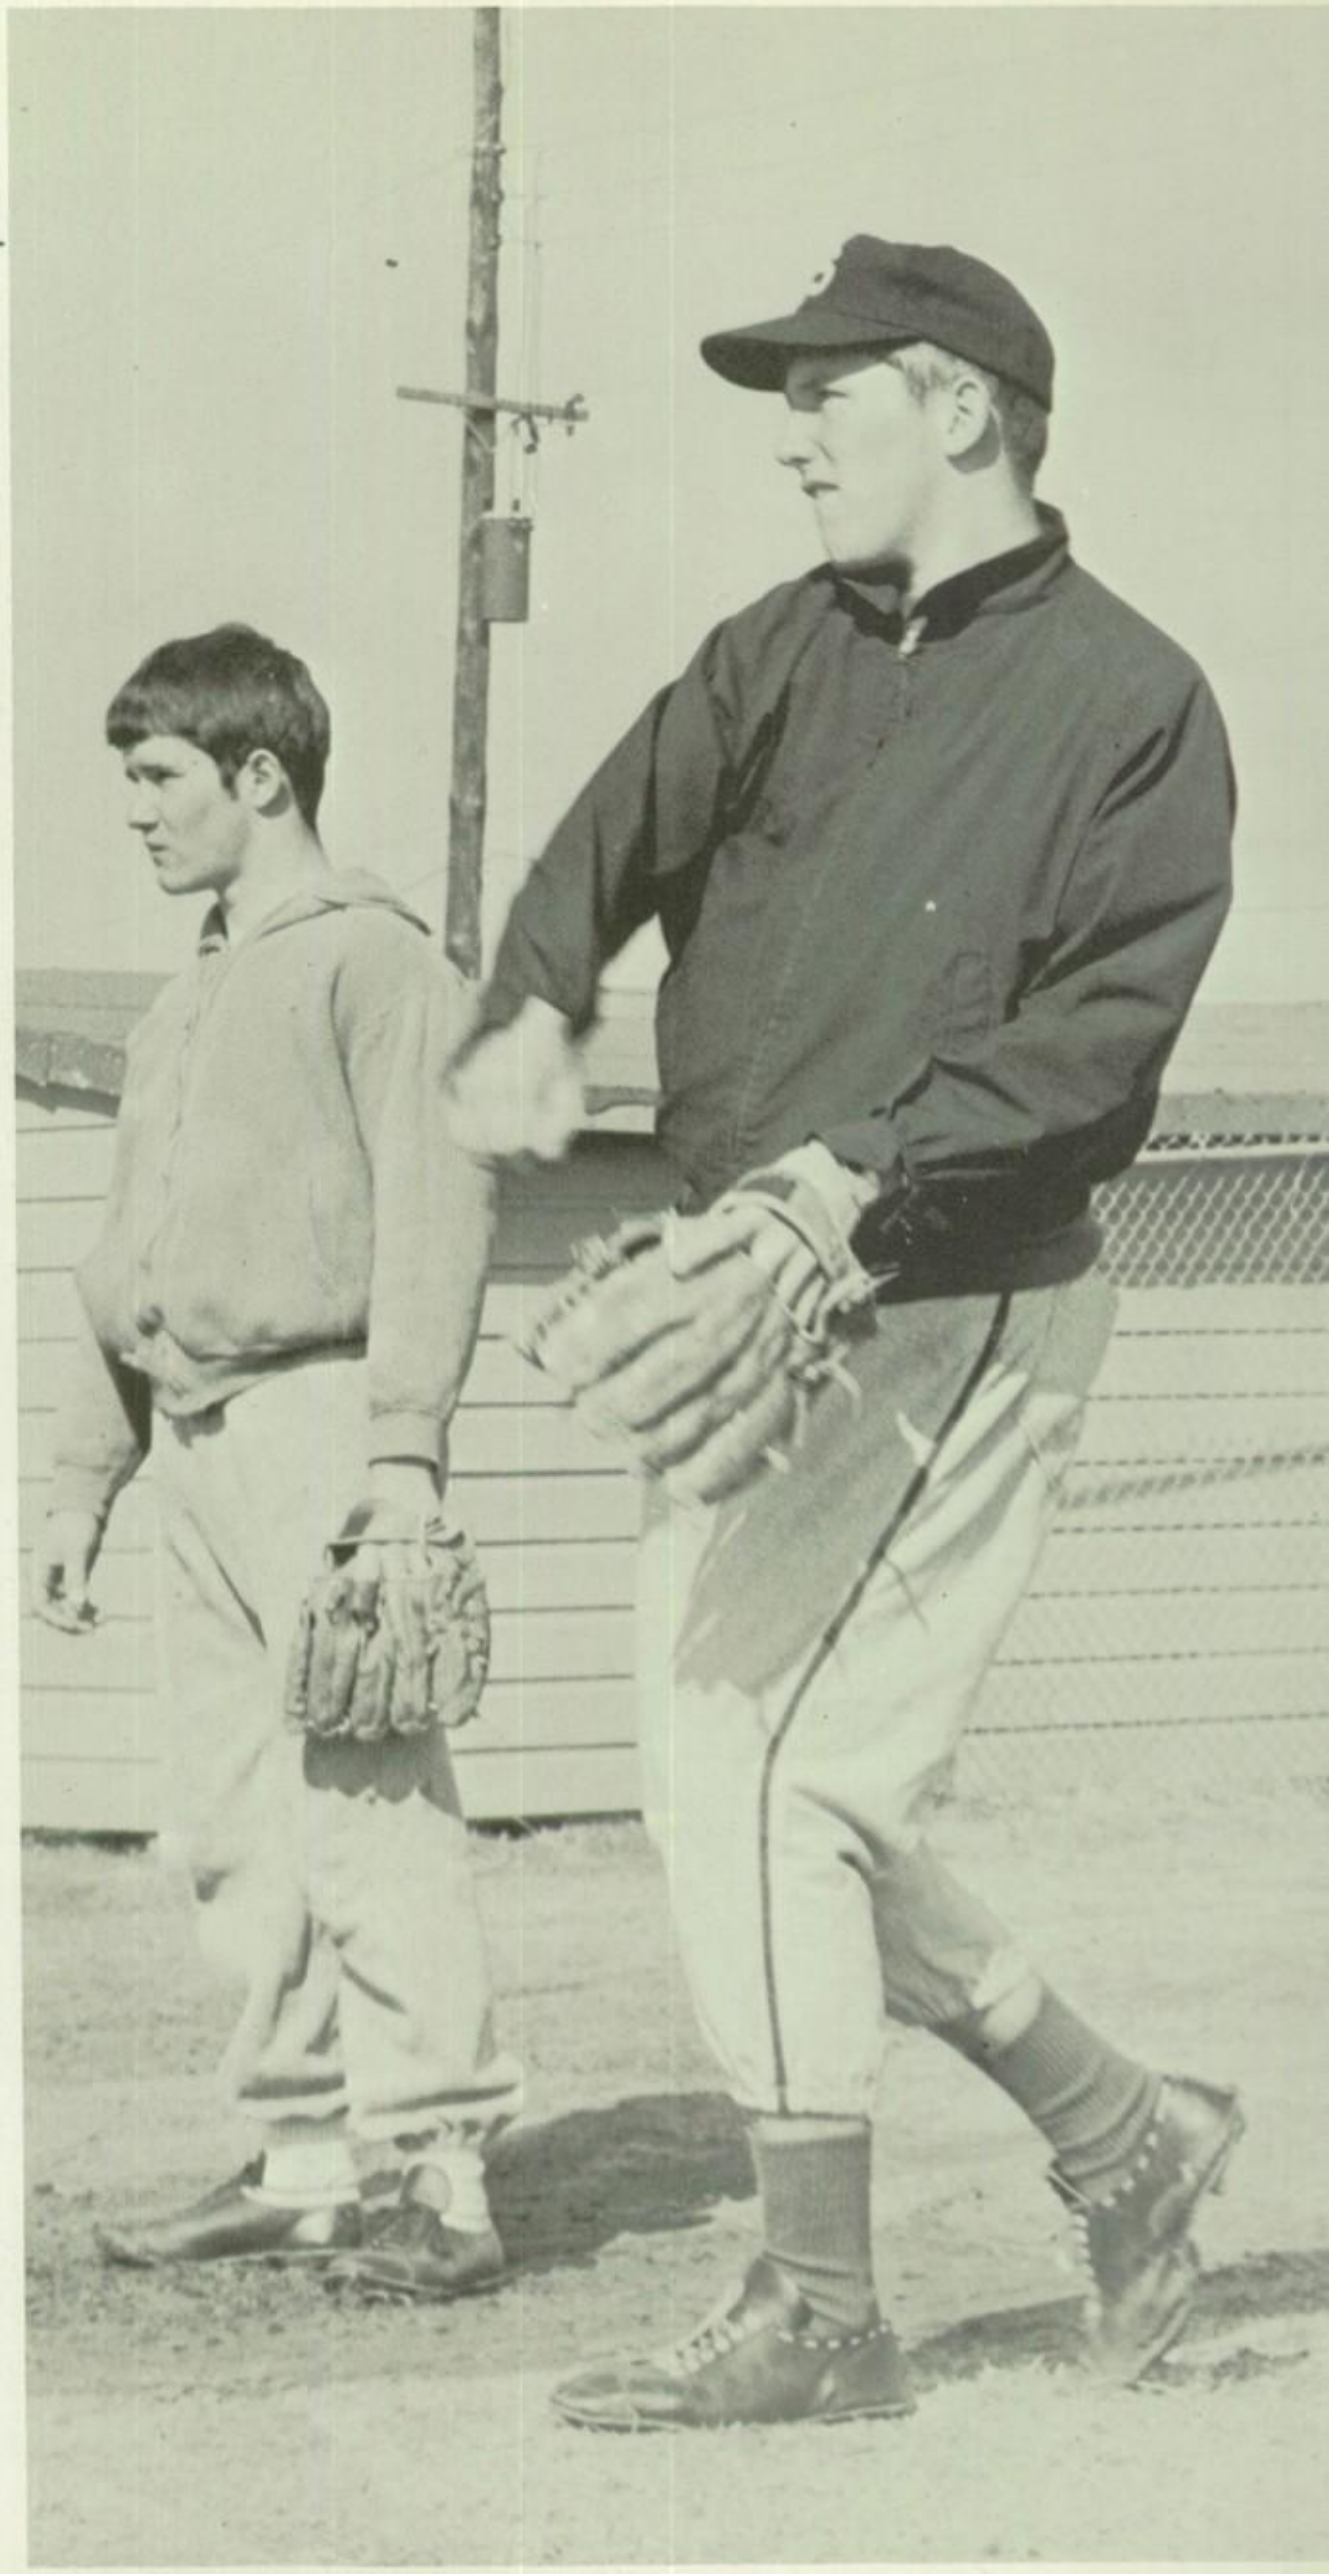
RETURNING STATE AA baseball champions after crushing Cushing, 11-2, Bobcats rode on, attempting to maintain their title.

Coached by Mr. Alan Axley, this year's team was composed of all returning championship players except for four who were graduated last spring.

Top prospects for a repeat of last year's performance were seniors Rusty Hall, pitcher; Mike Robinson, infielder, and juniors Robert Waller, infielder, and Larry Gianfilippo, catcher.

JOE PRIBBLE, SOPHOMORE, relaxes as he catches a fly ball in the outfield.

JAY JOHNS, jr., demonstrates his form while limbering up his arm during spring practice. Charlie Bishop, sr., patiently awaits his turn to warm up.



OBCATS DONALD GRICE, sr., '68; nd Terry Mason, sr., '69, steps up to the plate, during the final game with Cushing for Class AA State Championship. Bobcats won 11-2, snaring the school's first championship.

ORMER COACH JOHN Tatum gives last minute instructions to starters before State championship ame, the Bobcats victorious over Cushing, May 1968, at the Choctaw diamond.

Routine practice builds thinclad strength

WITH A RUNNING start, junior Mike Chain attempts a leap over hurdles.

EARLY WINTER BROUGHT many tedious practice sessions for the Bobcats in both track and field events. Coach J. Bowman worked with the Bobcat thinclads while awaiting the arrival of Head Coach Marvin Rehl, who was busy coaching the roundballers in a winning conference season.

Hoping to repeat their 1968 Capital Conference winning performance, the Bobcats showed their strongest points during the Oklahoma City Indoor Invitational Track Meet, by placing fifth in the Distance Medley Relay and senior sprinter Leon Irving third in the 60-yard dash.

During Cross-Country, four runners led the team to one win after another, and finally, the Capital Conference title. Junior distance specialist Mark Kelly took the individual crown.

Golf

Bobcats participate in late-spring sports

WITH THE ARRIVAL of a late spring, the Bobcats began the last team sport of the year; golf, the most rapidly-growing sport in the Oklahoma City area.

Ten boys enrolled to participate on the golf team in 1969 and acquired the coaching of Carl Twidwell, who takes over in the void left by Mr. David Selph, 1968 coach.

Three starters for the team were pre-determined through experience and the fourth starting position was left open to seven sophomores and freshmen on the team.

Three starters were Ron Reeser, Dave Twidwell and Will Hardin, who competed in the 1968 AA tour.

Bobcats won their first match in Star-Spencer's history by defeating Douglass 10-2.

Looking forward to years of seasons filled with the joys of discovery, we begin. Dreams and action for a better future compete for attention with a barrage of social activities challenging students new to Star-Spencer.

All in all, junior high is an experience which defies all forms of duplication. Buildings of the school provide an atmosphere of discipline; a place offering everyday practice in human relations. Experiences, captured in a blur, recount the excitement and challenge of junior high life.

Caught in a dizzying whirlwind of social and scholastic activity junior high students took new challenges in stride.

Character aids leadership

SPARKED BY ENERGY of enthusiasm, Student Council sponsored a year of action.

Presiding over activities were freshmen Ronnie Lair, president; Alan Clark, vice president; Craig Anderson, secretary, and Mike Thigpen, treasurer, the only eighth grade officer.

Headlining a year of activities was the Inter-City Student Council Meeting held March 7 at Star-Spencer; Pledge Day, and a dance held in the spring.

Homerooms and clubs each elected representatives to attend bimonthly meetings.

Freshmen and eighth grade students possessing traits of leadership, scholarship, service, and characters were inducted into Junior High Honor Society. Members, sporting at least a 3.2 grade average, attended honor society meetings once a month.

CLASSICAL ASSISTANCE AND hours of private study, were characteristics shared by three organizations; Future Homemakers of America, Science Club, and Orchestra.

Students interested in the domestic arts, home planning, consumer buying and culinary skill, found an outlet for their talents in the Junior High Chapter Future Homemakers of America. Members were initiated in the fall in a joint-ceremony along with the high school chapter membership.

Science Club was composed of eighth grade science students under the guidance of Mrs. Pollye Andersen, sponsor. Members entered projects in the annual Tinker Air Force Base "Youth Look to the Future" contest. Of main concern to the club, was preparing for the local Science Fair where winners had the opportunity to advance participating in city, state, even national competition.

Practice sessions and rehearsals were common fare for an instrumental music department group the orchestra.

Athletes select junior high princesses

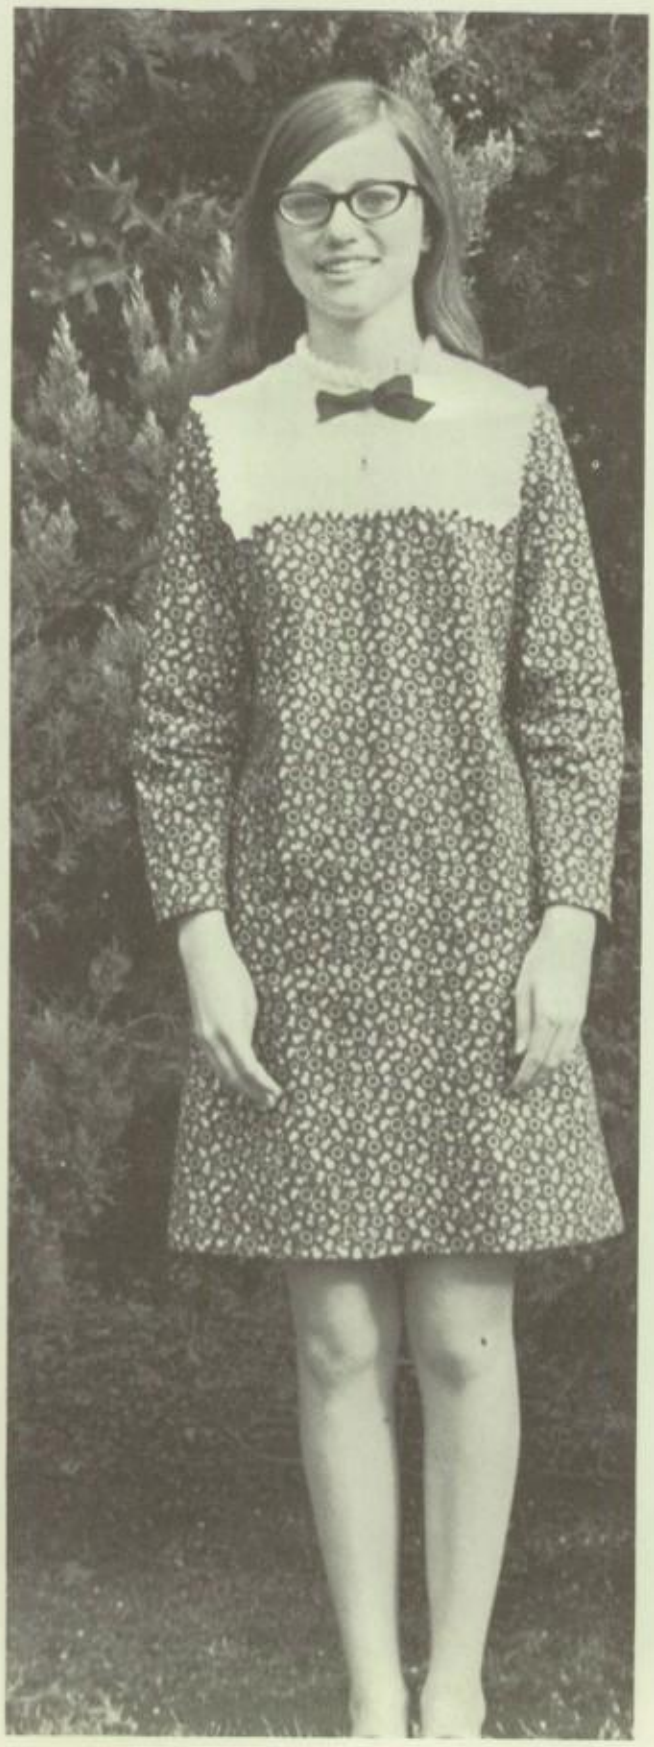
SEASONS, EACH WITH a nique character all its own, ex- ess distinctive moods.

Autumn, muting beauty into noky vagueness, marks a begin- ng. Spring heralds new ideas and hints of new life. Winter in its fragile, pristine beauty, brings to focus the formerly unnoticed.

With personalities as diverse as the seasons they represent, three freshmen reigned as Season Queens, each chosen by junior high sports boys. They were Karen Wester, Miss Fall; Davida McSpadden, Miss Winter, and Laurie Waldroup, Miss Spring.

ISS FALL, KAREN Wester, repre- nting the fall sports season, was in a osition to encourage junior high stu- nts to support athletic events as a nior high cheerleader.

WINTER MONTHS, AN active sport season of basketball and wrestling, had as its reigning queen Davida McSpadden, Miss Winter, chosen by members of the junior high sports teams.



SPRINGTIME HOSTED A variety of sports, baseball, golf, and track and cross-country to offer attendance at outdoor sports, and had as its queen Laurie Waldroup, Miss Spring.

There's a world of activity seekers ready to go anywhere at the drop of a hat— forming their own parade, banishing problems with a wave of the hand.

Turning on, tuning in—there's a group in every school that's up with the times. It's the "In Crowd," the participators. For them, activities happen at a glance, stemming from commonplace occurrences. Some lead Bobcats to athletic victories, others lead you in cheering the athletes. Assembling order from chaos, this is the involved generation.

Pace quickens at summers end

WHO DOESN'T REMEMBER last summer? Those final few weeks before returning to school were spent making the most of each short minute. Gossiping, sleeping late, rising early for summer jobs or reliving grade school days, wasted student's time.

Nevertheless, 254 students braved the 90 degree weather of summer school, to catch up or get ahead. Activities quickened pace with the realization that somehow, twelve short weeks had whizzed past and school was waiting just around the corner.

Classmates dragged out musty notebooks, preparing to be worked to the bone. School's beginning saw the addition of a Human Relations Club, six new classes and new faces. Closing of Arcadia High School resulted in the addition of 84 students and two faculty members. With an onslaught of new students, recruiting of new lifeblood furnished clubs with excuses for initiations and fund-raising projects. Joining other area high schools, student artists participated in a "psychedelic Paint-In" at the State Fair Grounds September 14. School was dismissed for "Fair Day" September 23. Sighs of relief were breathed when the Board of Education unveiled plans for Rogers Junior High School at the beginning of October.

Common interests, such as that shared by band students, Quinton Patton, jr., and Debbie Harris, soph., form a foundation that can transpose even strangers into fast friends.

Amused, befuddled fans support team

FOOTBALL SEASON BROUGHT a Star-Spencer certainty—Homecoming.

Friday afternoon of Homecoming drew hundreds of Bobcat boosters to view the annual Homecoming Parade.

Displays were colorful, and the floats were as gaudy as ever. Sophomores captured first place and a $25 prize with their musical monstrosity, A Taste of Honey, constructed to the parade's theme, "Popular Music." Sports queens, their attendants, and Pep Clubs marched in blustery winds and dismal, graying drizzle.

Amused, bemused, or befuddled, students actively supported the Bobcats as they fought on to a tie against Northeast Vikings, 20-20. Coronation of All-Sports Queen with her attendants brought a momentary hush to the stands. Bobcat spirit couldn't be quelled lon though, fans were as noisy as ev by third quarter.

Bringing the day's activities a close was the Homecomin Dance. Students and their dat splashed to the girls' gym, site the dance. Music of "The Chose Few" echoed in the gaily decorate gym. Such was Homecoming spirit-filled students.

TAR-SPENCER'S 1968 Homecoming court, Samye oplin, Miss Football; Diannia Tipton, Miss Basketball; hyllis Taber, Miss Track—Cross Country, and Dolores nclair, Miss Baseball, lead the parade of floats.

WATCHING HOMECOMING COURT circling the football field are Principal June Dawkins, Mrs. Kay Clark, Miss Beth Moore and Mrs. Judy Webb.

PICKING UP HER mum during a busy Homecoming Day of parade, ball game and dance, is cheerleader Annie Rachal.

OBCAT VARSITY TEAMMATES con-ratulate Randolph Barnes, 2, after he dded a spirited touchdown to the ten-sion-filled Homecoming game against the Northeast Vikings that ended in a close fought tie. Surrounding Randolph before the next play are junior Jim Turner, 12; Ted Rachlitz, 75; Kenny Heald, 88, and Bob Sallee, 50, all seniors.

ACT TESTING PRESENTED one more obstacle for college-bound senior Mike Robinson, pondering its difficulties.

HEAD CHEERLEADER Charles "Cherry-Cheeks" Bishop, displays the graceful form of the eight member squad at the FBLA Powder-Puff game.

PRECEDING THE START of each football game was a moment of solemness and reverence as the colors were presented and the invocation delivered.

Yuletime activity lifts spirit

DOLDRUMS, CAUSED BY monotonous study were broken by weekly athletic events, attended by cheering Bobcat fans.

Screams of hysterical laughter exploded as lowly Pep Club pledges survived the horrors of initiation November 27. Thanksgiving was awaited eagerly by vacation-starved students.

Christmas! Suddenly, the world was a little rosier and people somewhat merrier. Along with another holiday came Pep Club and journalism sponsored dances and caroling with friends.

Scores of tests greeted returning vacationers, the inevitable semester tests were taken, along with solemn vows to study harder second semester.

STUDENT COUNCIL MEMBERS, Alan Estep, jr., and Angela Hope, sr., needed a ladder to decorate the Council's 10-foot tree-top, in the auditorium foyer.

ELEVEN SENIORS WERE selected as "Oil Executives for a Day." Front Row: Mary Hayes, Ila Andrews, Carol Pribble, Phyllis Taber. Row Two: Jackie Williams, Samye Joplin, Sharon Rice. Row Three: Mike Holasek, Ted Rachlitz, James Strawn, and Ronnie Cook. Each executive attended a symposium conducted by the petroleum industry and toured city oil refineries.

1969 heralds hectic pace

INEVITABLY, JANUARY ARRIVED with a string of broken New Year's resolutions and the usual battery of semester tests.

Pre-enrollment came and sent puzzled students to counselors to plan next year's schedule. Tryouts for the Thespian play, "Night of January 16," were held along with the second Star-Spencer Invitational Basketball Tournament.

February's romantic traditions were upheld by Bobcats. "Camelot" was viewed by the sophomore class Feb. 4, followed by the Stage Band's, "A Psychedelic Jazz Concert." Journalists sponsored a mixer and musicians competed at the Stage Band Festival, Brownwood, Texas.

FHA members decorated and delivered personalized chocolate hearts for students ordering them.

JANUARY AND FEBRUARY brought many different types of weather which developed into mixed moods for Star-Spencer students. Choosing a pleasant spring-like Saturday afternoon at Will Rogers Park, Dolores Sinclair, sr., pauses at lakeside to feed the flock of hungry ducks waiting anxiously for springs arrival.

WINTER WEATHER CREATED hazardous driving conditions, forcing Evonna Vass, junior, to remain on campus and use the cafeteria facilities.

Right: ENACTING THE SUSPENSEFUL courtroom drama, "Night of January 16" were members of the Thespian cast Jackie Cooper, Roy Garoutte, Linda Raley, and Rick Young. Below: MANY SOUL-SEARCHING moods were brought to life for creative writing students. One excursion found them seeking inspiration for writing within the gnarled branches of an old nature-broken elm tree.

Warm winds bring spring

DISTRACTIONS TOOK THEIR toll during March and April. March winds went hand in hand with warmer weather, giving even the most dedicated student spring fever and 'senioritis.'

Seniors, always busy, stood still long enough to be measured for caps and gowns, while gala plans for the prom and senior breakfast were made.

Addicted to action, Thespians presented "Night of January 16" for the student body March 4-6. Athletes dusted off their track shoes and scholars brushed up for the Central State Scholastic Contest in Edmond.

S-SHS pupils reveal enthusiasm prepare for recognition

SHOUTS FROM ELATED students echoed throughout Star-Spencer corridors in May.

Students found an outlet for enthusiasm in a variety of activities. Coronation of Mr. and Miss S-SHS and S-SJH was during the annual yearbook assembly. Outstanding students received recognition for their achievements at the annual spring Awards Assembly.

Campaign stickers and posters plastered walls as Student Council and Pep Club held 1969-70 club officers elections.

Student Council OIKE (Oklahoma Kids Improve Everything) Week revived pride in state heritage and prosperity.

Graduation, after years of preparation and waiting, arrived. Seniors solemnly received coveted diplomas. They were earlier honored at the Jr.-Sr. Banquet and Prom, and Senior Breakfast at the Oklahoma City Outrigger Club.

Thoughts of royalty, flowing quick-silver like through old memories, are little more than a shimmering montage of visionary shapes that come and go for suspense: a hollow, echoing silence which quickly fills an overcrowded auditorium; a stage-full of nervously smiling beauties; and an expectant crowd of critic-prophets, each guessing the identity of the new Miss S-SHS. This scene repeated numerous times this year, filled students and royalty alike with awe of the beauty, pageantry and gala festivities of royalty.

Campus personalities gain recognition

SIX OF STAR-SPENCER'S most popular campus personalities were highly honored by their fellow peers in Mr. and Miss S-SHS election competition.

Candidates named to represent the individual classes were seniors Sharon Rice and Mickey Lloyd, juniors Debbie Mast and Mike Goff, and sophomores Bobbie Pullins and Terry Cavnar.

Title winners were nominees representing the class purchasing the largest percentage of 1969 Bobcat yearbooks.

Seniors, who bought the largest Bobcat percentage, were declared winners of the annual yearbook sponsored pageant.

Sharon and Mickey were presented Star-Spencer's most coveted and highly honored title at the May yearbook assembly, the '69 Bobcat was formally presented to the administration, school board members and the student body.

Past honors reap crown

CONGENIALITY, PLEASANTNESS, AND neatness are combined in the 1968-69 All-Sports Queen, Dolores Sinclair.

Standing beneath a flowery arch Dolores received the traditional crown, robe, and bouquet of roses of her title.

Dolores was selected Miss Baseball by the Boy's "O" Club and competed against four other sports queens for her honor.

School spirit and enthusiasm is displayed by her cheerleading ability and being a six year member of the Pep Club.

Past and present honors for Dolores include sophomore Baseball Queen Attendant, and junior class Miss S-SHS attendant.

Choir, Band Royalty

Hard work harvests titles

RECOGNIZED FOR THEIR outstanding contributions to vocal and instrumental music, three musicians were elected to reign as band and choir royalty.

Choir Queen Mary Levan, sr., reigned with junior Larry Kubiak, choir king. Both sing in Select Choir and Madrigal in their series of vocal music.

Debbie Wallace reigned as the 1969 Band Queen.

to the wind, forgetting the complexities of academic life to relax, giving some part of their time; their talents; their attention to the Three seniors deliver graduation address

BINDING MEMBERS OF the class of '69 together was a steady stream of activities and demands that befell them as benefits of senior status.

Selected as their gift to the school was a flag pole, flying a victory flag, designed by the class planning committee.

Seniors chose "In youth we learn, in age we understand" as the class motto.

After completing the American College Testing examination, seniors next visited with university representatives.

All activities for seniors funneled to a hectic climax Graduation Day, May 29, starting with the Senior Breakfast, at a local restaurant, then returning to school to perform the annual 'Senior Skit' for underclassmen. That evening seniors gathered at the football stadium decorated with red and white trim and red roses to listen to commencement lecturers, three of their classmates, deliver traditional "Senior Speeches."

At the close of the ceremony blue caps and tassels filled the air as 186 jubilant seniors closed the door on their high school careers.

Crepe paper, work pay off

SOPHOMORES, IN THEIR first year of senior high, created crackles of excitement.

Smashed thumbs, yards of billowing crepe paper and weeks of work seemed to pay off when the class float, "A Taste of Honey," earned first prize in the October 11 Homecoming Parade.

This year brought a change to the sophomore English Department. "Boinguage," a linguistic approach to modern English, replaced the traditional forms and methods of teaching grammar.

Extracurricular activities filled much of the average sophomore's time. New sophomores brought strength and life-blood to organizations such as Pep Club, Future Homemakers of America, service organizations, and Student Council.

Election of three class officers topped the bill as the class of '71's first activity. Officers were responsible for coordinating activities and projects.

Frosh accept leader posts

AFTER BRAVING TWO years of junior high, freshmen felt capable of handling positions of leadership while preparing for the hectic life of senior high.

Familiarity with Star-Spencer's faculty and campus enabled freshmen to participate more actively in organizations and athletics.

Earth Science students went on a field trip exploring Oklahoma's Arbuckle Mountains in October.

Spotlighting latest teen fashions, Future Homemakers presented a style show for interested girls.

Talented freshmen tried out for band and vocal music positions.

FINDING TIME FROM the monotony of their classroom duties to enjoy a sunny afternoon at Midwest City's Kiwanis Park are freshman class favorites, Alicia Crisp and Allen Clark.

Conventions key merit, demerit system

RELAXING ON A merry-go-round at Midwest City's Kiwanis Park are eighth grade class favorites Rita Wilson and Ricky Coleman. They were chosen in a class election in November.

TOTALLY ABSORBED BY their school's heritage, eighth graders developed a sense of responsibility and pride in Star-Spencer's traditions.

Meeting new challenges and shouldering responsibilities, eighth graders met the year with spirit and determination to leave a mark.

Offices in Student Council, Pep Club and other organizations were manned by eighth grade students.

Induction of students of high academic standing into Honor Society was a highlight of the year.

Competitive sports were offered for boys. Girls actively participated in homemaking classes and in Future Homemakers of America. Through a system of merits and demerits, points were earned so members could attend conventions later that year.

Homeroom competition kindled spirit during the food drive and all-school magazine sale first semester.

Popularity was a valuable asset as elections for Mr. and Miss S-SJHS and class favorites were held.

Smells of autumn greet seventh graders

SEVENTH GRADE FAVORITES, Debbie Long and John Cheatwood, brave the wind-swept landing strip at Freeway Airport, Oklahoma City, to observe the arrival and departure of aircraft.

FALL'S DISTINCT SMELLS—the odors of chalk, freshly painted walls, pep assemblies, and bonfires greeted new arrivals to Star-Spencer's halls of learning.

Seniors of '74 had the distinction of being the last seventh graders to attend Star-Spencer. With the completion of Rogers Junior High School next fall, all seventh and eighth graders will attend classes in the new building.

Outlets for creativity and future leadership potential were found in various organizations and classes attended by seventh graders.

Extracurricular activities such as Pep Club, Student Council, Library Club, Science Club, Red Cross, and Art Club gave members a chance to serve and become acquainted with their school.

Arts and Crafts, Beginning Band, Vocal Music and Speech I classes taught appreciation of the arts to inquiring young minds.

Adjusting to a new environment, seventh graders looked forward to five more years of school.

BOBBY WINTERS, SEVENTH Grade, gazes with brother, Larry Pruitt, Sr., at construction of new Rogers Junior High.

Concinnity is not spontaneous, it stems from the continuous output of energy to maintain a symbalance or order amid chaos. Salesmanship, the sublime art of convincing others of a product's worth, through the value of one's own contributions to society, utilized aspects of concinnity and persuasion. Apprehension at the onset of the school year was transformed into a sense of pride and accomplishment as a sea of faces were indexed and scores of ads sold. Through the skillful use of advertising and dashes of ingenuity, the price of the '69 Bobcat was substantially lowered.

Bobcat Staff

Concinnity challenges staff

WORK SESSIONS LASTING until three in the morning, numerous bouts of temper and tears, hard work plus an "all for one, and one for all" philosophy were characteristic elements of the second hour yearbook class.

In addition to publishing the yearbook, staff members sponsored other student body services: mum sales at Homecoming; Class Favorite Elections, Mr. and Miss S-SHS and S-SJH elections; special April Fools and Twirp Week newspapers; Senior Wills and Prophecies; Christmas mixer, and Underclass Personality Elections.

With 'Concinnity' as its theme, the 1969 Bobcat featured an increase in the number of pages; two new divisions, curriculum and closing, and greater color coverage. Coined in 1968, the theme word was defined as the putting together of many separate parts to form a whole.

Total cost for publishing the book exceeded $5000, covered in part by advertising sales.

Last year's ratings of "A" in the National Scholastic Yearbook Association Contest challenged the 20-member staff and editors to surpass their success.

The Board of Education announced room expansion in 1970.

Burning desires start life's thread,
Unlearned man seeks to better himself . . .
New buildings spring into great estates
As man tries to forge into entity.

Crude structures remain as in reminiscence of yesteryear
Refusing to wan away; declining to emit to death,
Destroyed by hands that work diligently to mold the future . . .
Great leaders bring changes to direct a nation's path
While others seek to teach us, entertain us;
Burning desires refined into light to shape life.

Nita,
I would think it would be cool if you and Tom would stay together ruts, to tell ya the truth. Kenny and you look the best of all the boys I've like. But you like who want OK? OK!!!
God bless ya, in all

Cradled by nature's arm man learns to stand
Rays of light warm the soul:
Auspicious smiles go down in history . . .
Shadows of a dream become reality—
Join hands for a lasting friendship to become a memory . . . just a memory.

Nita,

So a real sweet and cute girl which I real always love, It has been nice knowing ya for the past year. You may be crazy, but lovable. Hope to see ya in the years to come.

Love always,
